Please explain how these funds will be used to provide a public benefit:

This area is a high-risk, low-income area with a majority of single parent apartments. This specific apartment complex (Harbison Gardens) is a hot spot for youth to fall through the cracks, specifically during after school hours. Through community partnerships, these at-risk youth are provided opportunities to stop the cycle of poor academic performance and behavioral issues. Youth will be encouraged to not participate in drug use, gangs, and crime through access to recreational sports, mentorships, tutoring assistance, empowerment programs, apprenticeship opportunities, and transportation to access these services. The Irmo area is plagued with crime, violence, and danger which impacts the community and surrounding areas. Through partnerships with the apartment complex management company, Lexington Richland School District Five, the Mungo Foundation, Irmo Chapin Recreation Commission, and apprenticeship programs such as Walker White Mechanical, this area can be turned around to benefit the community, save youth, and provide a route away from a life of destruction. To qualify for low-income housing, youth residing in the apartment complex will be required to participate in the provided services. This project is an example for other areas of the state to implement and see success across communities, in schools, and in the lives of the next generation.

Please explain how these funds will be used to provide a public benefit:

These funds will be used to provide the iRIZE middle school teen drug prevention program to over 18 middle schools across five counties in the Upstate, including six Title I schools. The iRIZE school-based drug prevention program offers invaluable character development tools for adolescents and equips them with knowledge and resilience during their formative years. By addressing the complexities of drug use in an accessible environment, this program creates an atmosphere of awareness and open dialogue. It empowers students with factual information, debunks myths, and fosters critical thinking skills and resiliency. Additionally, this program teaches coping mechanisms and decision-making skills, motivating adolescents to face peer pressures confidently. Beyond mere deterrence, this program instills a powerful sense of community and belonging, reducing feelings of isolation and disconnectedness that may lead to drug use. Additionally, this funding gives the ability for RIZE Prevention to offer one-on-one student adolescent addiction and motivation coaching, school-based group coaching sessions, and parent resources.

Please explain how these funds will be used to provide a public benefit:

The Courage Center (TCC) provides a safe and supportive setting for individuals and families on their journey to recovery from substance misuse and substance use disorders. As a Recovery Community Organization (RCO), TCC provides recovery coaching by state certified peer support specialist with lived experience for individuals suffering from substance use. Family Coaches provide family support and coaching for the families of the affected person. TCC provides mutual aid meetings for young adults, individuals, and their families in Lexington, Chapin, and Columbia. TCC works with referral partners such as Prisma, Lexington Medical Center, Probation Pardon and Parole, Lexington EMS, Lexington Detention Center, Lexington 1 School District, the Lexington County Solicitor, Lutheran Services, and many more. In addition, TCC provides our participants access to both licensed and licensed seeking counselors in partnerships with University of South Carolina and other degree granting institutions. TCC also performs harm reduction activities through its mobile outreach and as a community distributor of Narcan. These funds will allow TCC to continue to expand its life affirming recovery services to the populations of Richland and Orangeburg counties. Community development work conducted in the previous year will now allow TCC to expand services with referral partners identified and relationships established. TCC has leased space to accommodate coaches and provide consistent space for training, education, and mutual aid in both Richland and Orangeburg counties. Funds will help outfit those locations and staff with peer support, clinical support and management, and administrative support.
